CONSULTATION

Consultations are crucial as you embark on your cosmetic journey.

First, and most importantly, they provide a time for you to meet with and discuss your specific aesthetic desires with a cosmetic field expert. It is essential that you know and trust your Provider, and this time is foundational to that end. This period allows your Provider to fully understand your skin type/concerns and ultimate goals. It is also helpful if you come to your consultation with an open mind to treatment, and let your Provider know if you are open to all options – both invasive and least invasive approaches. With that knowledge, your Provider can share the variety of ways to achieve those goals (means and methods): the details of afore-mentioned treatments and services: and determine a course of action for the days ahead. Your Provider will let you know the best approach to achieve your cosmetic goal, while keeping your safety and health a priority. This should instill trust in you as a patient, as a trusted Provider only has your best interest in mind. At the close of the consult, you can expect to have a clear path forward, uniquely designed for and catered to your particular make-up and aesthetic objectives.

While most patients come in ready to make a decision, there is certainly no pressure to lock in a treatment the same day as your consultation. We want you to feel confident in making your decision and understand that you may need to discuss your cosmetic treatment with another, or even make arrangements with work or childcare before proceeding with your recommended treatment plan. Luckily, with the information offered during your personalized consultation – you have all you need to make the most educated and specialized choice for your skin type and hoped for results and, thus, can plan next steps with confidence!

We, at REN Dermatology & Aesthetics, appreciate each and every patient who chooses to visit our practice. We are devoted to delivering the highest level of expert and up-to-date care, while establishing a realistic, cosmetic treatment plan to naturally achieve your cosmetic goals. Can't wait to see you at your consult!
